Farm Bureau Notes

U. S. GRAIN GROWERS MAKING PROGRESS

Farmers everywhere are greatly interested in the progress of the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc. This grain marketing organization which was organized through the American Farm Bureau Federation is making rapid progress. It is easy to understand that it would be impossible for it to be in shape to handle the crop of grain the first year, as many farmers had hoped it would be, but it is drilling straight ahead and making good progress in spite of many difficulties it has faced. It is their intention to handle part of the grain crop this year and be ready to handle the entire in good shape in 1922.

in the house of representatives as well as the Senate. Great effort was expended by the Farm Bureaus over the country to keep Congress in session until some of the measures for the benefit of agriculture are passed. Various County Farm Bureaus assisted by wiring their Senators and Representatives insisting that Congress continue in session until needed legislation for relief of farmers is passed. The proposal for recess in Congress was defeated by a small majority and Congress is still in session.

The Wonders of America
By T. T. MAXEY

THE LIBERTY BELL

This bell, the most treasured relic in the nation, was cast by a London bell founder, brought to America in 1752 and hung in the dome of the old state house in Philadelphia. It weighs about 2,000 pounds.

A letter just received by the Curry County Farm Bureau from the U. S. Grain Growers, states that the matter of handling the grain for farmers in New Mexico will be taken up at a special meeting of the Executive Committee which is in session this week.

The Farm Bureau and the U. S. Grain Growers, as well as other organizations subsidiary to the American Farm Bureau Federation have made rapid progress during the few short months of their life. Farmers should not expect too much of them in a short time. It is generally believed by the thinking farmers that these organizations are on the right track. It will take time for development and the support and cooperation of the farmers to strengthen these organizations for greater service.

Agricultural Legislation

Some progress is being made in Agricultural Legislation at Washington, D. C., but the most part of the matter seems to be tied up in endless discussions. The recent in congress which was recently proposed and which would have probably killed all proposed Agricultural Legislation was defeated through the efforts of the farmers organizations and the agricultural bloc which is now active.

So that all Americans might see this venerable and hallowed relic, it has been taken on many journeys. In 1884 it went to New Orleans, in 1893 to Chicago, in 1895 to Atlanta, in 1902 to Charleston, in 1903 to Boston, in 1904 to St. Louis, in 1915 to San Francisco, and more recently took part in a Liberty loan parade in its home town of Philadelphia.

It fulfilled the prophecy of its inscription when, in 1776, it rang out the glad tidings that the 13 states had ratified the Declaration of Independence.

For fifty years or more it rang in the celebration of every national anniversary. On July 8, 1833, while tolling for the funeral of Chief Justice Marshall, it cracked again and has been mute ever since.

It occupies a conspicuous position in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, where visitors are welcomed.

CLEARING OUT

The chief operator stepped up to the new girl and tapped her on the shoulder.

"You're fired," he said simply. "Fired!" the girl gasped. "Why, am I doing my work right?"

"Maybe so," said the C. O. calmly. "But you're tired just the same. The way you give people the right numbers the first time they ask for them makes the rest of our service look rotten. You're causing all kinds of complaints."—Richmond Times Dispatch.

Skinflint's Method.
A mighty old gentleman was arrested by a street beggar.

"A bit of charity," winced the beggar.
I am not in the habit of giving money in the street, was the reply. "I don't want to make a display of my wealth—but here is my address, and be kind over a visiting card of one of his friends."—Barcelona Daily Mail.

A Useful Bird.

"I bought this parrot six months ago to reform him" admitted J. Fuller Groom, "but soon gave up the attempt."

"Ah! His prophecy was too much for you?"

"No. I found it very comfortable to have my sentiments expressed so completely without being obliged to exert myself in the least."—Kansas City Star.
